

*1st International Conference on Innovative Translation and Interpreting Research (ICITIR)
26-27 November 2009*

*I Congreso Internacional de Innovación Investigadora en
Traducción e Interpretación
26-27 de noviembre de 2009*

The Universidad Pablo de Olavide (Seville, Spain) is pleased to announce the First International Conference on Innovative Translation and Interpreting Research.

The two-day First International Conference on Innovative Translation and Interpreting Research at the Universidad Pablo de Olavide (Seville) will provide young researchers (postgraduate or doctoral students) with the opportunity to:

- 1) Present and discuss your research work: if you are involved in research in the areas of Translation and Interpreting or related fields, you are invited to submit an abstract for consideration. Works will be reviewed by an international group of experts.
- 2) Attend specialised seminars that will be helpful for your future research processes, given by a team of international PhD and postgraduate trainers. The seminars and workshops will cover the following topics: new trends in Translation and Interpreting research, state of the art in TI postgraduate training programmes, research methods for Translation and Interpreting studies and other related fields.
- 3) Receive qualified and confidential feedback on your work if you wish so.

Participants are invited to register their contributions in a voluntary research contest. They will present their work before other researchers and TI postgraduate students and will receive feedback on their contributions following the presentation. All first three research presentations registered in the contest will receive a certificate of merit, and a 100% refund for the conference fee.
